

An Act relating to insurance; prohibiting property and casualty companies from increasing rates in certain circumstances; providing for codification; and providing an effective date.