A. To be eligible to use a portion of the tax revenue generated by a special livestock event to assist in paying expenses incurred in connection with the event under this act, a host community must conduct an economic impact study of the geographic area expected to experience economic benefits from the special livestock event and submit the study to the Oklahoma Tax Commission for certification.

B. The economic impact study must identify the geographic area expected to experience economic benefits from the special livestock event and provide an estimate of:

1. The general economic impact likely to occur in the area as a result of the event; and

2. The anticipated amount of increase in the tax receipts to this state from the taxes imposed under Section 1354 of Title 68 of the Oklahoma Statutes that:

- a. will occur in the special livestock event area during the period that begins on the day before the first day of the event and ends the day following the last day of the event, and
- b. is directly attributable to the preparation for and presentation of the event.

SECTION 4. NEW LAW A new section of law to be codified in the Oklahoma Statutes as Section 6304 of Title 74, unless there is created a duplication in numbering, reads as follows:

A. Not later than the thirtieth day after receiving the economic impact study from a host community, the Oklahoma Tax Commission shall:

1. Determine whether the study accurately estimates the amount of increase in the tax receipts to this state imposed by Section 1354 of Title 68 of the Oklahoma Statutes; and

2. If the Tax Commission determines that the study accurately reflects the increase in those tax receipts, certify the study.

B. If the Tax Commission determines that the economic impact study submitted by the host community does not accurately estimate the amount of increase in the tax receipts to this state imposed by Section 1354 of Title 68 of the Oklahoma Statutes, the Tax Commission not later than the thirtieth day after receiving the study shall:

1. Submit a preliminary determination that the proposed impact is not accurate to the host community; and
