

An Act relating to telecommunications; creating "Kari's Law"; providing short title; requiring certain business owners and operators to configure certain telephone systems to allow direct access to 9-1-1 services; requiring certain notification to central location; stating exception; stating application; requiring telephone service providers to notify certain commercial customers; stating application; providing for codification; providing for noncodification; and providing an effective date.