Research Analysis

Senate Amendments to HB 1377 create the Twenty-first Century Corporation Commission Review. The seven-member review committee would be directed to study whether the Corporation Commission is properly structured to operate efficiently in the 21st century, including assessments of its performance, structure, stated mission, funding, and staffing. Additionally, the review committee will determine whether the Commission should be appointed, elected, or a combination thereof. The review committee's completed report, with specific recommendations, must be submitted by September 1, 2018.

Fiscal Analysis

This measure creates the Twenty-first Century Corporation Commission Task Force; members will serve without compensation. The Oklahoma Corporation Commission anticipates a negligible fiscal impact because the measure may create an increase in workload to the employees of the agency.
