Research Analysis

HB 1822 eliminates an appeal to district court for those whose driving privilege has been revoked or denied solely based on having been denied a hearing by the Department of Public Safety. The measure clarifies the timeline for the filing of appeals and requires ignition interlock device providers to report violations of ignition interlock customers monthly. Violations are to result in the revocation or suspension of driving privileges. The measure eliminates certain administrative hearings and reports.

Fiscal Analysis

HB 1822, as introduced, shifts the process from the Dept. of Public Safety to the District Courts. Contingent upon how many cases are filed, the District Courts could see an increase in filing fees, thus generating some additional funds. Since this is lessening the duties of DPS, there is no fiscal impact for the agency.
