Research Analysis

Engrossed SB651 outlines civil procedure for actions based on a website accessibility claim. The measure requires a plaintiff to send notice to the defendant 120 days prior to filing an action on allegations that the defendant's website does not conform with applicable laws, codes and standards for websites for the visually or hearing impaired. The court must dismiss any action filed by a plaintiff if the website defects are corrected prior to the filing of a petition and award court costs and reasonable attorney fees to the defendant.
