Request Number:	9121
Author:	Rep. Dollens
Date:	2/10/2020
Impact:	OSBI: annual costs between $150,000 to $385,000

Research Analysis

HB 3345 creates “Ida’s Law”. The measure directs the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation to create the Office of Liaison for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Persons to work with state, tribal and federal law enforcement agencies on missing persons and homicide cases involving American Indian individuals. The Office is to develop best practices protocol for law enforcement response, assist families, tribal agencies and others in using NamUs; assist victims’ families in navigating state and federal district court cases; coordinate with other state offices to develop training and education on missing and murdered indigenous persons issues; and facilitate trainings for law enforcement and the public on issues relating to missing and murdered indigenous persons. The Office must include a missing persons specialist that has significant experience working with tribal communities.

Fiscal Analysis

HB 3345, which creates an Office of Liaison for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Persons at the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation (OSBI), is determined to have an annual cost for the agency. The OSBI’s rough analysis is below. After review from House fiscal staff, a range of impact between $150,000 and $385,000 is estimated. The cost is highly dependent upon how many cases the unit will handle and how many investigative agents are needed.
