Research Analysis

HB 3966, as introduced, directs the Office of Educational Quality and Accountability to reward teachers who are renewing their National Board Teaching Certification by paying for a portion of their renewal application.

The number of teachers who can receive financial assistance for renewal is capped at 300 per fiscal year. The total amount paid by the OEQA shall not exceed $1,000 per applicant.

The measure also eliminates the salary schedule specific to teachers who have attained National Board Certification, and directs the OEQA to provide National Board Certified teachers with a $5,000 bonus annually over a five-year period.

Further, HB 3966 authorizes the OEQA to use money from the “Education Leadership Oklahoma Revolving Fund” to provide the annual bonuses and financial assistance for certificate renewal.

Lastly, the measure deletes obsolete references to the Oklahoma Commission for Teacher Preparation.

Fiscal Analysis

It is anticipated that the portion of the renewal fees covered by the OEQA for the 300 applicants at no more than $1,000.00 each will result in an impact of $300,000. In addition, the costs related to the National Board certification stipends would have an impact of approximately $5,260,000 each fiscal year.
