Research Analysis

SB 1830 modifies requirements for podiatrist and perfusionist license applicants. In order to take the podiatrist license examination applicants must be legal residents of the United States. Applicants are not required to be free from infectious disease and may submit their application electronically.

The State Board of Examiners of Perfusionists is authorized to issue temporary licenses prior to perfusionist applicant approval. Temporary licenses may only be granted to applicants who have submitted an application, paid the examination fee, and passed the examination. Temporary licenses are valid until a permanent license is granted or for ten days following a license application denial.
