Bill Analysis

SB 465 directs the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education to adopt a policy that allows a student who graduated from a public high school in this state with a grade point average in the top 10% of their class to be eligible for resident tuition. If the number of students seeking enrollment exceeds the available number of spaces offered for enrollment, then a lottery shall be conducted to allot spaces. The measure also authorizes an institution to admit other applicants for enrollment after admitting students who graduated from the top 10% of their class and after the institution reviews all timely applications for undergraduate enrollment and considers factors enumerated by the measure.

The measure requires institutions within higher education to submit an annual report to the State Regents describing the composition of the entering class of students enrolled pursuant to this measure. The measure further requires all institutions of higher education, medical schools, and dental schools to publish a description of the factors for admission to their respective institutions.
