Research Analysis

HB 1789, as introduced, allows local governmental units to create or contract with a purchasing cooperative in order to achieve best value or best terms in contracts. The measure allows any purchasing cooperative or interlocal cooperative to utilize a single legal newspaper of the state or a nationally distributed newspaper to meet its notice and publication requirements.

Fiscal Analysis

HB 1789 in its current form permits local governmental units to enter into purchasing cooperatives. If one assumes that such units would only elect to enter such cooperatives when doing so would result in improved purchasing terms for the governmental units, the measure has potential to result in purchasing savings at the local government level. The measure has no direct fiscal impact on the state budget or state revenues.
