Research Analysis

HB 2600 provides that all persons serving a county government, both in their official capacities and in their individual capacities, have the right to speak confidentially to their legal counsel and receive confidential advice from that counsel. The measure declares it a conflict of interest for a district attorney's office to investigate any person or entity for whom the prosecutor's office has acted as legal counsel.

The bill also provides that each county is entitled to counsel of its own choice, as determined by the board of county commissioners.
