Research Analysis

The proposed policy committee recommendation for HB 3288 increases the amount of physical education schools must provide to elementary students, from 60 minutes per week to 150 minutes per week. This requirement is in addition to the pre-existing requirement for 60 minutes of recess each week.

The measure also strongly encourages elementary schools provide two 15- minute recesses each day, instead of one 20-minute session. Elementary schools are prohibited from withholding physical education as a form of punishment, except if the disciplined student has exhibited threatening behaviors. During end of year assessments, elementary schools must try to provide recess or periods of physical activity within the 90 minutes before the test.

Lastly, the measure requires school boards to adopt a physical education policy for students in grades six through 12.
