Research Analysis

HB 1497, as introduced, modifies several provisions related to insurer subsidiaries. The measure requires the controlling person of an insurer to file an annual group capital calculation with their registration unless the insurer meets specific exemption criteria. Insurers subject to registration and scoped into the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) Liquidity Stress Test Framework must also report the results of the stress test. The criteria for determining which insurers must complete the test are set by the NAIC's framework. The reports must be submitted to the lead state insurance commissioner, as determined by the NAIC's Financial Analysis Handbook procedures. This data will remain confidential, exempt from open records laws, and cannot be used in private civil actions

The Insurance Commissioner may share confidential regulatory information with any third-party consultant designated by the commissioner, in addition to the NAIC and its affiliates and subsidiaries, provided they maintain confidentiality. However, the measure prohibits publicly disseminating information about an insurer's group capital ratio or Liquidity Stress Test results to prevent misleading comparisons.
